Employees' biggest safety concerns

Employees who felt unsafe or very unsafe explained that this was due to concerns about the following:

-  Lack of door locks
-  Open-access campus
-  Potential active shooter
-  No comprehensive emergency plan
-  Lack of regular training and emergency drills
-  Confusion about who or how to call to get help

Employees' biggest safety concerns

Employees who felt unsafe or very unsafe explained that this was due to concerns about the following:

-  Lack of security cameras
-  No one around, especially early and late in the day
-  Night
-  Car break-ins/theft
-  Inadequate security coverage, slow response time, and inadequate response to incidents
-  Officers are not adequately trained to handle mental health emergencies
-  Officers only intervene if a law is violated and do not "keep the peace"
-  No panic/emergency buttons to alert officers

Employees' biggest safety concerns

Employees who felt unsafe or very unsafe explained that this was due to concerns about the following:

Concerns about student attitudes towards instructors

Concerns about police/911 being called for minor incidents

Concerns about protecting students from other students

Safety solutions are not accessible for individuals who are Deaf or Hard-of-Hearing

Employees' feelings about replacing law enforcement with CAPS varied

Out of 579 open-ended responses, some employees were in favor of replacing law enforcement with CAPS, some were in favor but only conditionally, some were not in favor of this, and some did not have enough information about this proposal.

"Yes. I think most safety issues can be handled by a trained team of CAPS representatives, and if a situation is dangerous, there's still the option to call 911."

"I would support this only if the county sheriff would be able to respond to emergencies very quickly. I don't think that CAPS in its current form is capable of handling any real emergencies."

"I would not support this as with events in the past in the US such as school shootings and violence, police presence is vital at our campuses"

"I would need to know more facts about how this would work before deciding if I would support the changes or not."

Employees' feelings about replacing law enforcement with CSOs varied

Out of 565 open-ended responses, some employees were in favor of replacing law enforcement with CSOs, some were in favor but only conditionally, some were not in favor of this, and some did not have enough information about this proposal.

“Yes, we should look at ways to assist our students and community rather than heighten the situation with armed police”

“Maybe, it depends on their level of training, enforcement, and responsiveness.”

“No, I feel that anything can happen at a community college and we need the law enforcement.”

“I am not sure what that entails”

Employees had many suggestions to improve safety on campus

Out of 461 open-ended responses, employees' suggestions to improve safety on campus reflected the following common themes:

Add security cameras across campus

Add call buttons across campus

Add interior locks to classroom and office doors

Provide training about our emergency plans, including active shooter drills

Improve lighting across campus

Improve communication and training about who to call in different situations

Maintain or increase security presence

Increase connections among campus to create a stronger sense of community

Replace current law enforcement with previous Campus Police officers

Improve mental health support for students
